

Lesson I Failed To Learn

Written and Composed By: Anthony Holloway

Verse

I've packed my bags a hundred times,
But love keeps crossing every line.
I say I'm gone, but truth be told,
You've got a grip that won't let go.

Pre-Chorus

I've tried leavin', I've tried to run,
But I always come back undone.

Chorus

I know some doors just close for good,
I know I'd leave you if I could.
I know I should've let your memory burn—
But you're the lesson I failed to learn.

Verse

I've watched the years change who I am,
Until I'm a ghost of a better man
Every time I swear we're through,
One look and I'm just chasing you.

Pre-Chorus

Every goodbye feels like pretend,
'Cause I always let you back in.

Chorus

I know some roads don't take you home,
I know some hearts are better alone.
I know I should've let that bridge burn—
But you're the lesson I failed to learn.

Bridge

I've learned to smile through missing you,
To wear the mask and see it through.
But every turn just brings me back again,
To the bitter start where it never ends.

Chorus

I know some scars just stay and sting,
I know what losing you should bring.
I know I should've watched the tables turn—
But you're the lesson I failed to learn.

Outro

Yeah, you're the lesson I failed to learn.
The one I never seem to learn.
