

Still Had A Heart

Written and Composed By: Anthony Holloway

Verse

Tuesday after work, same old place
Same one beer, same empty space
Thinking about a shot, maybe two
When a tired smile saw right through

Pre-Chorus

I raised my glass, you pulled up a chair
Like you weren't scared of what was sitting there

Chorus

You ordered one more, asked about my day
I gave you half the truth, you stayed anyway
You talked about the rain and your old car
How broken was normal in this run-down bar
For the first time in years, I felt the beating start
Forgot I still had a heart

Verse

Sunday afternoon, nothing to do
Washed my truck, made it look new
Cleared off the seat where my coat lay
Like I might need that room someday

Pre-Chorus

I went to that old bar like I do
But this time I was looking for you

Chorus

You saved me a seat, asked how I'd been
I said I was the same, you just smiled again
You laughed at my joke and leaned in close
Like you knew right then what I needed most
For the first time in years, I felt the beating start
Forgot I still had a heart

Bridge

I thought I was fine, I was only numb
Living like the lonely had already won
Then that tired smile saw me half-alive
And woke up something I couldn't deny

Chorus

You never said forever, never asked me to stay
Just gave me a reason not to run away
You left a little light where the cold used to be Reminded me there was more left in me
For the first time in years, I felt the beating start
Forgot I still had a heart

Outro

Yeah, I forgot I still had a heart.
