

Sundress Season

Written and Composed By: Anthony Holloway

Verse

First warm Friday, May sun's on fire,
Downtown patio, cold beers inspire.
Phone buzzes—boys' text hits:
"Here it comes—you know what this is."

Pre-Chorus

Little breeze and that careless sway,
Lord help a man on a summer day.

Chorus

She struts in, whole room freezes
Cowboys droppin' to their knees
Bartender grins, "Boys slow down"
One look 'round, we're summer-bound
Warm wind blowin' — hearts stop beatin'
Must be Sundress Season

Verse

Daylight patio, she's sippin' slow,
Twirls on by in that summer glow.
I buy round, her name slips my brain,
One smile lands—I'm lost in the game.

Pre-Chorus

Little laugh and a sideways glance,
Boys ain't standin' a chance.

Chorus

She turns round and the whole place leans
Like wheat fields caught in summer breeze
Tough guys stumble forget their name
One little smile, they're all the same
Thank God for the sun — that's the reason
Must be Sundress Season

Bridge

Yeah the internet jokes every year
Memes and reels when the warm winds near
Could be the dress or that sunshine glow
Either way she steals a heart real slow

Chorus

She leans in close eyes lock on mine
Heart's racin' fast this might be the time
Pickup's waitin' but time stands still
One more smile might seal the deal
Every fella barely breathin'
Watch out for Sundress Season

Outro

That breeze starts blowin'
Boys start knowin'
It's Sundress Season
