

You Already Had It

Written and Composed By: Anthony Holloway

Verse

You showed up late, that same old grin,
Smellin' like whiskey and last night's sin.
Said you were workin' — I knew better,
Love don't lie, but you sure did let her.

Pre-Chorus

You wanted wild? Well, now you got it—
I'm the storm that's done bein' quiet.

Chorus

I should be sorry for you,
But honestly, I'm not.
You had the home, you had the heart,
And the love you took for granted.
Now you're chasin' ghosts,
Down that road of bad habits—
I would wish you the best,
But you already had it.

Verse

You'll tell your friends I lost my mind,
But I just finally drew the line.
You'll see me out on the dance floor,
Laughin' like I don't hurt anymore.

Pre-Chorus

You wanted wild? Well, now you got it—
I'm the storm you won't be stoppin', no.

Chorus

I should be sorry for you,
But honestly, I'm not.
You had the fire and all the peace,
And the girl who really meant it.
Now you're all alone,
With your bottle and your bad habits—
I would wish you the best,
But you already had it.

Bridge

You said I'd come crawlin' back — guess you were wrong,
I'm singin' my truth in a goodbye song.
Your memory's just smoke in the wind,
No, this time, I don't break or bend.
You taught me how to stand my ground,
And baby — look who's winnin' now.

Chorus

I should be sorry for you,
But honestly, I'm not.
You had the love, you had the fight,
And a girl with all that magic.
Now I'm ridin' high,
And you can't stand it—
I would wish you the best,
But you already had it.

Outro

Yeah, you already had it...
And you blew it, boy — don't you forget it.
